1. Rule, returnable and heard forthwith.

2. Clearly the matter was being prosecuted diligently through out. There seems to be a bonafide impression that the matter was closed for orders after the matter had been argued on several occasions. Be that as it may, the ends of justice requires that the matter be decided on merits.

3. In the circumstances, rule is made absolute by setting aside the impugned order and remanding the matter to respondent no.1 for a fresh hearing.
